

DEPARTMENTAL AND COLLEGE HONORS AWARDS

You may earn the Departmental or College Honors Award (the terminology differs among the undergraduate college) in any major. The general Honors College minimum requirements are honors credit with grade of "A" or "B" in 12 upper-division hours in the field of concentration for the major (including a 3-hour senior honors thesis or other creative component approved by the department or college), but the colleges and departments listed below require a certain combination of courses for these awards. (If your college or major department is not listed below, the general Honors College minimum requirements apply.)

ARTS AND SCIENCES (Departmental Honors Award — All Majors) — Satisfactory completion ("A" or "B" grade required) of one hour of honors thesis/project-preparation course (using HONR 3000 or other appropriate course number) in the semester before undertaking the senior honors thesis or senior honors project, unless specifically exempted by the Arts & Sciences Honors Committee on the basis of a written recommendation from the faculty thesis director stating that student already has sufficient research experience to undertake the senior honors thesis/project without the one-hour preparation course. (The student must file a petition for exemption before the beginning of the semester in which the thesis/project-preparation course ordinarily would be taken.)

SPEARS SCHOOL OF BUSINESS (College Honors Award — All Majors, but Marketing students may choose Departmental Honors Award instead of College Honors Award) — Specified upper-division curriculum (honors contracts are not permitted in these twelve hours):

- I. Three hours from common body honors sections (BADM 4513, LSB 3213, FIN 3113, MKTG 3213, MSIS 3223)
- II. Six hours from College of Business Honors Seminars (listed under BHON prefix): Applied Research Processes, Critical Issues in Global Business, Literature in Business, Topics in Contemporary Business.
- III. Three hours of Senior Honors Thesis.

*Honors contracts may be substituted for parts I and II above (with approval from Dr. Mark Weiser, College Honors Director for the Spears School of Business). Please see Dr. Weiser for more information regarding substitutions.
